This was the first production sale for Bob and Bev Miller and family and despite the muddy roads, the weather, a fairly decent crowd gathered for the event. The massive snow storm undoubtedly kept some of the mountain cattlemen from attending and consequently demand on some of the bulls was light. The female portion of the sale was very good with lots of bidding action.

The offering was very well presented and the bulls from the establishment have a good reputation among commercial cattlemen. The Miller family has been in the business for a long time and they are planning another sale next year with an even better set of bulls.

...ce Dept. reaffirms decision on lamb imports

U.S. Commerce ...t, earlier this week reaf...rmed a preliminary decision to collect countervailing duties of 6.19% (FOB value) on U.S. imports of lamb meat from New Zealand.

The announcement was the latest chapter in a dispute over whether New Zealand unfairly subsidizes its lamb exports to the detriment of U.S. lamb producers, reports CNS.

Commerce earlier this year announced a preliminary decision to order countervailing duties on U.S. imports of New Zealand lamb based on allegations that New Zealand provided unfair subsidies to its lamb producers and exporters. However, in mid-September New Zealand became a signatory to the subsidies code of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

Under U.S. trade law, the U.S. must determine that a U.S. industry has been injured or is in danger of being injured by the importation of subsidized products from a subsidies code signatory before the U.S. can implement duties.

The New Zealand case was therefore referred to the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) which determined in October that U.S. imports of New Zealand lamb could be damaging to the domestic lamb industry.

On the basis of the ITC ruling, commerce again announced a preliminary decision to implement countervailing duties, a measure designed to offset any benefits that might accrue to New Zealand's lamb producers and exporters from alleged subsidies.

Industry Congress holds 1st meeting

By PETE CROW

The Youth Beef Industry Congress held it's first meeting in Denver recently. The meeting was intended to promote and encourage participation in the beef industry by junior association members. Junior representatives from 14 breed associations and 2 state associations attended.

The National Cattlemen's Assn. was responsible for organizing the meeting with co-support from several organizations within the livestock industry.

There were several speakers with a wide variety of backgrounds discussing many of the issues that effect the livestock business, such as beef promotion and government issues.

"The future of the livestock business is on the shoulders of this group of young people" stated Peter Marble of Death, Nev. "Management techniques have changed drastically in the last decade and our young people must take full advantage of them."

The group had the opportunity to compete with each other in what was called an Idea Forum. The group was divided into twelve smaller groups and was required to discuss various topics within the cattle industry, for a score. The most popular topics were related to the seed stock breeding industry.

The winners of the competition were Brian Cheesman, Modoc, Ind.; Erin Harris, Lodi, Calif.; Terri Briggs, Princeton, Mo.; Jana Robbe, Pueblo, Colo.; Rita Hornaday, Ames, Iowa; and Greg Stewart, Washington, Kan. Scoring was based on knowledge originality and presentation.

This Selkirk fall sale was a good sale, and it averaged well. However, this set of cattle could have sold even better on other days than they did here. The cattle have the sons and quality to top the market, whatever the market is. Today they sold well, but not at the premium that their kind have brought before.

This was a good day for Dan Landers and his family. They sold every bull on offer. The market comes and goes just a little these days, as does the market for commercial cattle; and there is not much an individual can do about the market structure. Today the market was not as high as a breeder would hope for, but it was the market on this day. Dan Landers settled for that market, and he is ready for 1982.

Once again this sale lived up to its reputation as one of the top consignment sales in the entire country and credit for its success should go to the consignors who each year bring the best bulls they have. The commercial cattlemen that patronize this sale know that the bulls offered will be of high quality and each year they fill the barn to near capacity. This year's offering was excellent from top to bottom and had the following comment: "Cattlemen who served as judges working extra hard to find their Champion and Reserve Bulls. The judges were Carl Shaffer, Basler, Bill Schell, Robertson, Lawrence Nachtman, Douglas and Bob Webster, Hemingford, Neb."

The offering represented the efforts of 15 purebred breeders and the cattle sold in rapid fashion. Volume buyer was Griffin Bros. taking 10 head.

This was a production selling event that had the real buying interest once again. Regardless of the market, be it up or down, this event moved on and cut like these people wanted cattle; and they bid accordingly.

The top draft of commercial bred heifers, 12 head, sold at $650 each, going to Chas. Rein, Melville.

These sellers could have sold even more of these cattle to this crowd. A huge crowd of people came to bid and buy. It was perhaps the largest crowd of the season. The sale grossed well over $500,000, and this speaks well for these cattle and for the people who produce them.

Herd test program

The Herd Improvement Test program officially weighed in on Nov. 21, 1981 at Phi Eidel's lot, Vaughn, Mont. There are 445 bulls on test this year with 56 consignors coming from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Alberta-Canada, and Montana.

There are 182 PB Charolais—30 15/16 Charolais and one half blood. There are 17 PB and 16/16 Gelbvieh—21 7/8 Gelbvieh—21 3/4 blood and 1 5/8 Gelbvieh. There are Maine-Anjou, Salers and 107 Simmentals.

Elementary Education

Salers average No. 1 against all breeds in three of U.S. largest bull gain tests.

"Salers mothers produced 175 lbs. more calf per cow than Limousin, Charolais and Simmental"
—French Technical Institute of Cattle Raising Test

Salers x steers have placed Grand Champion or Reserve Grand Champion in the last six carcass shows entered.

An 85-90% Salers calf crop in commercial herds is normal, not unusual. Our Salers bulls travel well on good feet and legs, are prepotent and their calves are born easily and get up quickly.

Call or write the ranch for the location of our breeding age bulls nearest you.

This half-blood Salers calf will produce more pounds of marketable beef at weaning (particulary in the prime cut loin and quarter) per cow exposed than Limousin, Charolais, Simmental, Brangus and others. Both official tests and commercial operators have proven it.

Market Roundup:

Fed prices lean on sunny side of mkt.

FED CATTLE CAME into the week under pressure as cattle buyers adjusted to the increased marketings on the opening session following the holiday-shortened period last week. Some price recovery was noticed on the following session as the receipts at major terminals were reduced due to the winter storm conditions through parts of the Midwest as buyers scrambled for limited numbers. The live cattle price advances proved to be only short lived as the wholesale beef trade failed to give any support and worked sharply lower at midweek under only a light demand. Late week live cattle trade under price pressure with buyers cautious and demand limited resulted in a very slow trade.

Price trends on slaughter steers and heifers were uneven this week from one marketing area to the next. Midwestern terminal markets finished generally steady to $1 lower, however, Omaha closed at 75¢ to $1.25 higher on steers and heifers. Central plains direct markets finished steady to 50¢ higher with instances of $1 higher in western Kansas on steers. Direct marketing areas westward closed uneven to $1 higher with Idaho steady to 50¢ lower.

This 1981 Bayers sale was one of those events that had a big crowd, and it had the action. The event was one of the best in the area since this time last year. The combination of the horses and the bulls brought in lots of excitement and they were a bidding and buying crowd. It was an easy sale to conduct, and the first sons of S Titan 7777 bull passed the test.

OLD DAIRY BEAUTIFUL SETTING
Stock cow ranch, under tight fences, most outside fences, and cross fences are new woven wire with barb wire on top. Corner posts and new corrals are Yew wood, making this the best fenced ranch you will find, which is very important if you intend to run registered stock or sheep. The meadows are high producing grass and clover, 356 acres under flood irrigation mostly level hay and with some hill pasture. The owner sold the 350 brood cows late this fall, they were fat, those that were butchered yielded 53% after carrying calves most of the season, with no extra feed. 428 total acres with 1½ miles from Eagle point city limits. ## Washburn gives industry optimism

Sam Washburn, president-elect of the National Cattlemen's Assn., recently expressed cautious optimism about the cattle industry.

Speaking at the Indiana Beef Cattle Assn.'s annual convention, Washburn cited several factors which suggest improved prospects for profitability—particularly for those cattlemen who are good planners and managers.

Favorable factors, he said, include: a downtrend in the economy later in 1982; for feeders, the possibility of hedging a profit; and a moisture base in the Corn Belt for another good crop.

"We probably have seen the lows in calf prices," Washburn said. "We can expect some increase in both fed and feeder cattle prices—if the industry remains current in its marketings. If we look past the recent and present very adverse conditions, we can see somewhat better times ahead.

"Good winter grazing, including good wheat pasture, will contribute to feeder cattle price improvement."
